

Like bamboo,
we learn to bend
with the winds of life,
always returning to balance.

Rooted, yet flexible.
Strong, yet relaxed.
Moving, without force.

This is the essence of a Tai Chi body

